Bringing generations together

Come and see the next generation of emporia products and services

emporia is the leading brand of mobile phones for the older generation and at Mobile World Congress 2012 we will be launching new products and services that will enable mobile operators to engage further with this important and growing market.

emporia's products and services are 'as smart as they need to be and as simple as possible'. And this promise makes our handsets perfect for the discerning senior market.

In the last 12 months we have worked even more closely with the globally recognised University of Cambridge, and with our target market to create new products that are perfect for mobile network operators wishing to capitalise on the growing market for phones for older generations. At Barcelona we will be showcasing our newest phones, supporting new services that seniors will love.

Since 1991 emporia has been setting the standard for ease of use and high quality design. emporiaELEGANCE has won the iF product design award and the Plus X award. And emporia has been nominated for Best Featurephone or entry level phone at the Global Mobile Awards 2012.

Visit us to see the future of smart services on phones that are easy to use as well as enjoying some traditional Austrian hospitality.

We look forward to seeing you!

Simplify your communication.®
